

Designing for Pedestrians and Bicycle Riders

Two-day RMS Training Courses for 2019

8-9 May and 30-31 October 2019

Who should do these courses?

These two-day training courses are suitable for RMS and TfNSW staff, council officers and traffic & transport consultants. They are designed to provide engineering and planning practitioners with a sound working knowledge of current best practice for pedestrian and cycling provision.

The courses will give practitioners a detailed understanding of the key issues and operating requirements for pedestrians and bicycle riders particularly when mixing with other modes. The courses consist of a mixture of field work (on foot and by bike), tutorials and workshops working in teams to develop solutions to real-life examples.
